The installation of semi-automatic feed machine and preparing one's own feed on the Feed Unit of university offers multiple advantages that directly improve the profitability, productivity, and sustainability of livestock and poultry production. Feed is the most expensive component of animal production, often accounting up to 70% of total costs. By formulating and preparing own feed on the Feed Unit, we can significantly reduce expenses by utilizing the available by products of different units such as undersize seed, mustard cake etc. as feed ingredients in preparation of concentrate feed. This approach eliminates the need to depend on costly commercial feeds and reduces transportation and middlemen charges, making overall production more economical.
